Complex Dispute Resolution

Series Editor:

Carrie Menkel-Meadow,

Georgetown University and University of California, USA

This series collects essays on the development of foundational dispute resolution theory and practice and their application to increasingly more complex settings of conflicts in the world, including multi-party and multi-issue decision making, and negotiations in political policy formation and governance, and international conflict resolution.

Each volume contains an introduction by the editor which explores the key issues in the field. All three volumes feature essays which span an interdisciplinary range of fields - law, political science, game theory, decision science, economics, social and cognitive psychology, sociology and anthropology - and consider issues in the uses of informal and private as well as more formal and public processes. The articles also question whether the development of universal theoretical insights about conflict resolution is possible with variable numbers of parties and issues and in multi-cultural settings.

Taken together the three volumes in this series present classic research articles on all aspects of complex dispute resolution and constitute an invaluable reference resource for libraries and academics in political decision making, human rights, international relations and business and commercial law.

Foundations of Dispute Resolution

Volume I

Edited by Carrie Menkel-Meadow, Georgetown University and University of California, USA.

Complex Dispute Resolution

This volume brings together leading research articles in to the theory, research findings and applications of modern dispute resolution. The articles cover the primary processes of negotiation, mediation and arbitration, as well as exploring combinations and hybridization of those processes. The volume spans both the 'science' and 'art' of dispute resolution, considers the relationship of peace to justice and includes both empirical (descriptive) and normative (prescriptive) assessments of how these processes of dispute resolution function.

Contents:

Introduction

Part I Introduction

History of dispute resolution and process pluralism as a field, Carrie Menkel-Meadow;

Part II Foundations of Negotiation Theory and Practice

Toward another view of legal negotiation: the structure of problem solving, Carrie Menkel-Meadow; Chronicling the complexification of negotiation theory and practice, Carrie Menkel-Meadow; Why negotiations fail: an exploration of barriers to negotiation, Robert Mnookin; Shattering negotiation myths: empirical evidence on the effectiveness of negotiation, Andrea Schneider; When not to negotiate: a negotiation imperialist reflects on appropriate limits, Robert Mnookin; Machiavelli and the Bar: ethical limitations on lying in negotiation, *James J. Multi-Party Dispute Resolution, Democracy and Decision-Making

Volume II

Edited by Carrie Menkel-Meadow, Georgetown University and University of California, USA.

Complex Dispute Resolution

The articles selected for this volume consider how the process of dispute resolution is altered, challenged and made more complex by the presence of multiple parties and/or multiple issues. The volume explores issues of coalition formation, defection, collaboration, commitments and voting practices and includes examples of concrete uses of deliberative democracy processes taken from new applications of complex dispute resolution theory and practice. The selected essays represent the latest theoretical advances and challenges in the field and demonstrate attempts to use dispute resolution theory in a wide variety of settings.

Contents:

Introduction

Part I Introduction

Process pluralism for complex multi-party dispute resolution and deliberative democracy, Carrie Menkel-Meadow.

Part II Foundational Issues in Multi-Party Dispute Resolution: How is It Different?

Strategic barriers to dispute resolution: a comparison of bi-lateral and multi-lateral negotiations, Robert Mnookin; What have we learned about teaching multi-party negotiation, Lawrence Susskind, Robert Mnookin, Lukasz Rozdeiczer and Bruce Fuller; Sequencing to build coalitions: with whom should I talk first, James K. Sebenius; Deliberative trouble: when groups go to extremes, Cass Sunstein; Strategic uses of argument, Jon Elster.

Part III Practice: Complex Dispute Processes and decision Making in Action

Coalitions, Leigh Thompson; Norms of deliberation: an inductive study, Jane Mansbridge et al.; Voting, Howard Raiffa; Proceeding to a constitution: a multi-party negotiation analysis of the Constitutional Convention of 1789, Dana Lansky; Mediating the war of olives and pines: consensus building land use planning in a multi-cultural setting, Hephzibah Levine; What is consensus?, Lawrence Susskind and Jeffrey Cruikshank; On the ethics of planning: what profiles of planners can teach us about practical judgment and moral improvisation, John Forester.

Part IV Deliberative Democracy and Consensus Building Processes

The lawyer's role in deliberative democracy, Carrie Menkel-Meadow; Mediating public disputes: obstacles and possibilities, Lawrence Susskind and Connie Ozawa; Managing meetings to build consensus, David Straus.

Part V Evaluations of Multi-Party Decision Making and Deliberative Democracy

Implementing consensus-based agreement, William Potapchuck and Jarle Crocker; Regulatory negotiation and the legitimacy benefit, Jody Freeman and Laura Langbein; Scaling up deliberative democracy as dispute resolution in health care reform: a work in progress, Carrie Menkel-Meadow.

International Dispute Resolution

Volume III

Edited by Carrie Menkel-Meadow, Georgetown University and University of California, USA.

Complex Dispute Resolution

This volume considers the application of dispute resolution theory and practice to international conflicts and explores the uses of formal processes such as diplomacy or treaty formation, as well as more informal processes such as multiple-track private negotiations or peace workshops. The volume also presents materials on more innovative forms of complex transnational or sub-national conflict resolution. The articles are selected from both public and private international law settings and explore the dialogic and dialectical relationships in the development of conflict resolution theory and practice in multi-cultural and multi-disciplinary settings.

Contents:

Introduction

Part I Introduction

Process, parties and formality and informality in international dispute resolution processes, Carrie Menkel-Meadow.

Part II Formal Dispute Resolution Processes: Negotiation, Mediation, Arbitration, Adjudication

Public and private international dispute resolution, Andrea Kupfer Schneider; Correspondences and contradictions in international and domestic conflict resolution: lessons from general theory and varied contexts, Carrie Menkel-Meadow; Diplomacy and domestic politics: the logic of two level games in double-edge diplomacy: international bargaining and domestic politics, Robert Putnam; Special barrier # 2: culture, Jeswald W. Salacuse; Two paths to peace: contrasting George Mitchell in Northern Ireland with Richard Holbrooke in Bosnia-Herzegovina, Daniel Curran, James K. Sebenius and Michael Watkins; The timing of peace initiatives: hurting stalemates and ripe moments, William Zartman; Cultivating peace: a practitioner's view of deadly conflict and negotiation, John Paul Lederach; Merchants of law as moral entrepreneurs: constructing international justice out of the competition for transnational business disputes, Yves Dezalay and Bryant Garth; Getting along: the evolution of dispute resolution regimes in international trade organizations, Andrea Kupfer Schneider.

Part III New Processes: Institutions, Informal and Hybrid Dispute Processes

The problem solving workshop in conflict resolution, Howard Kelman; Adjudicating in anarchy: an expressive theory of international dispute resolution, Tom Ginsburg and Richard McAdams; Restorative justice: what is it and does it work?, Carrie Menkel-Meadow; Accountability for atrocities: moving forward by moving backward, Jane Stromseth, David Wippman and Rosa Brooks; From Nuremberg, John Hagan; Rwandan Gacaca: an experiment in transitional justice, Maya Goldstein Bolocan.

Part IV Issues in New Forms of International and Transitional Dispute Resolution

Current illusions and delusions about conflict management – in Africa and elsewhere, Laura Nader and Elisabetta Grande; Between dialogue and decree: international review of national courts, Robert B. Ahdieh; Excerpt from Judging the Judges: Judging Ourselves, David Dyzenhaus; Are there systemic ethics issues in dispute system design? And what we should [not] do about it: lessons from international and domestic fronts, Carrie Menkel-Meadow; Remembrance of things past? The relationship of the past to the future in pursuing justice in mediation, Carrie Menkel-Meadow; Is alternative dispute resolution consistent with the rule of law? Lessons from abroad, Jean Sternlight.

Part V

Conclusions and Coda, Carrie Menkel-Meadow.
