Immediate Release

dawsonera - discover ebooks with SFX®.

Information questors can now access dawsonera ebooks through SFX®, the widely used Ex Libris™ Open URL link resolver. More than 1500 libraries worldwide have chosen SFX® to fulfil their link server requirements. Users can link to ebooks at title through SFX®, promoting the discoverability of your ebook collection.

dawsonera is an innovative ebook lending platform and an indispensable acquisition tool for academic and research libraries worldwide. dawsonera is the fastest growing, most relevant and affordable eContent provider in the academic world. It is the natural evolution of innovation and partnership with librarians that sees SFX® availability extended to dawsonera.

Jude Norris of dawsonera comments "Our partnership with SFX® is beneficial in helping users discover their library's electronic resources fast and effectively and it extends yet more content to the user."

SFX® - the original and most widely used OpenURL link resolver is an innovative tool for interconnecting library controlled resources and services. SFX® provides users with context-sensitive links to services that librarians define based on their institution's e-collections and policies, providing seamless navigation between citations, full text, references and other services. For library patrons, SFX® offers quick and reliable access to the resources they need. SFX® provides the library with a comprehensive knowledge base to easily find and obtain the most current and complete electronic content through an easy to use interface, as well as tools to analyse and manage its collections.

SFX® linking capabilities can be easily embedded into library resources as well as into other institutional applications such as course management systems.
