Nelson Thornes is a leading educational publisher of books and learning resources focusing on primary, secondary, college and vocational subjects. These include business studies, design and technology, drama, media, geography, history, mathematics, religious education, social science, sports and leisure, nursing and health sciences, and teacher training and adult education.

Stanley Thornes began by publishing English textbooks for students before branching out into other areas of education. In 2001 it acquired Thomas Nelson & Sons, and Nelson Thornes was formed. The company's key strength is in publishing textbooks recommended by the AQA Exam Board and a number of Sector Skill Councils for whom they modify texts quickly as the needs of new qualifications evolve. Their mission to offer top quality innovative and creative Blended Learning solutions that support teachers and motivate students goes hand in hand with our own.
