

Think on with RAND

RAND Corporation is the original non-profit think tank helping to improve policy and decision making through objective research and analysis. They are a member of the Association of American University Presses \(AAUP\), the largest organisation of non-profit scholarly presses in the world and participate in the AAUP's Books for Understanding program, which directs teachers, scholars, journalists, librarians, booksellers and others to university press books relevant to the latest news within their specialist field.

Over 300 RAND titles are now available to purchase from dawsonera.

RAND publish in the fields of politics, international affairs, economics and American society. By collaborating with us they now bring RAND's cutting-edge research to a wider, international audience.

The RAND Corporation is committed to finding effective solutions to important policy issues including those about health care, education, the global economic crisis, and ongoing security challenges in the Middle East and elsewhere. For 60 years, RAND has worked to help confront challenges such as these by providing objective analysis of important problems and the possible solutions to them. RAND's commitment to making a difference is evident in the broad variety of insightful and influential titles in their extensive catalogue, many of which are now available to purchase from dawsonera.

RAND has a long history of research on issues relating to the national security and public welfare of the United States, and publishes the results to serve the public interest. Its work involves the major disciplines in the physical, social and biological sciences, with emphasis on the problems of policy and planning in domestic and foreign affairs.

Digital technology is helping RAND to bring many classic titles from their early history back into print. To celebrate RAND's 60th anniversary in 2008 they produced new editions of many classic RAND titles, some of which are included in their ebooks catalogue and are available on dawsonera.

In 2009, John Warren, RAND Publications Marketing Director, received the International Award for Excellence in the Development of the Book from the advisory board of the International Journal of the Book. Warren's paper, Innovation and the Future of eBooks, was selected by the editors for the award from among the journal's 10 highest-ranked papers. Warren presented a plenary session at the Seventh International Conference on the Book, in October 2009 at the University of Edinburgh in Scotland, where the award was formally acknowledged. This illustrates how highly regarded RAND are within the publishing sector.
