

O'Reilly and Microsoft Guides Now on dawsonera

Dawson is delighted to announce the addition of O'Reilly and Microsoft Press ebooks to the dawsonera catalogue. One thousand titles are being added over the next two weeks.

O'Reilly Media is the world's leading publisher of computing, software and programming guides. As a publisher, it has been at the forefront of delivering innovative manuals to the IT community for many years and is recognised as the leader in its field. It was also a pioneer in the simultaneous production of ebook editions, initiating this process in the early 1990's and has also taken a lead in all aspects of information dissemination with its over-subscribed Tools of Change conferences.

In November 2009, O'Reilly was appointed the exclusive distributor of all books published by the Microsoft Press. Several hundred Microsoft titles are also to be made available on dawsonera (select 'Microsoft Press' from the publisher drop-down menu under Advanced Search). New ebooks are commissioned jointly by O'Reilly and Microsoft Press to ensure publication keeps pace with newly developed programmes and significant software releases.
